

VeriFone® PAYware Mobile

Accept payments wherever you go by turning your mobile phone into a point-of-sale terminal.

The Challenge

When you're delivering products or services to homes or businesses, it's not always practical or preferable for your customer to pay by cash, and accepting checks on faith is risky.

Customers prefer to pay by credit or debit card, but wireless mobile terminals are expensive. Without a more affordable solution, many merchants resort to writing down card information to call in later, which can expose you and your customers to potential fraud.

That's why First Data has partnered with VeriFone to turn your smart phone – the one that's with you wherever you go – into an affordable, secure payment terminal.

The Solution

With VeriFone's PAYware Mobile, your iPhone* slips snugly into a special sleeve, making it easy for you to wirelessly swipe your customer's card, capture a signature, electronically transmit the payment and email your customer a receipt.

* iPad and iPod Touch also supported (Wi-Fi only, manual entry of card data)

This innovative device saves you money, because you use the phone you carry with you anyway, rather than having to invest in costly wireless terminal hardware and software. And because the transaction is transmitted electronically and immediately posted, you benefit from fast access to your funds.

VeriFone PAYware Mobile can save you time, too, because it eliminates entry errors as well as the need for you to handle and deposit cash.

Peace of Mind for You and Your Customers

Not only do you have the ultimate in affordability and convenience, you have the ultimate in security. That's because VeriShield Protect is built into the application, so card data is encrypted the instant the card is swiped, never actually entering your phone.

This multi-layered security complies with the most stringent industry standards. From the customer's point of view, they will have no reason to worry about handwritten card numbers getting into the wrong hands. From your perspective, the complications associated with regulatory compliance are drastically minimized.
